

Tuition and Registration

General Information (Aug 11-15, 2025):

Full tuition must be received to reserve a place in the 2025 workshop, and workshop spaces are limited. Contact Dr. Koenig at Harold.Koenig@duke.edu for more information.

Individual Mentorship: Workshop enrollment that includes individual mentorship is limited to 31 persons (workshop enrollment has averaged about 40-60 during past few years). Individual mentorship is on a first-come, first-serve basis, so those who sign-up early will have first choice. The first 16 people who sign up are assured one 30-minute mentorship session with Dr. Koenig; the next 15 people are assured one 30-minute session with another course faculty. There is no individual mentorship after the first 31 people have signed up. If workshop participants do not wish individual mentorship, then $100 will be taken off the tuition (however, most participants want individual mentorship).

Tuition: $1300. Active members of the Association of Professional Chaplains are given a discount of $200 (i.e., $1100 tuition). Tuition includes: all lectures, individual mentor meetings (if approved), and a 500-600 page course syllabus; limited mentorship at home institution after course (Koenig and possibly others); and modest snacks and coffee during breaks. Tuition does not include transportation; lodging; meals; or books.

Continuing Education Credit: The 5-day workshop may be eligible for CME, CNE, other CEU, and chaplain CCE, but course participants will need to obtain such credit on their own. We offer no “official” CE credit for this course. However, we do provide participants with a certificate of completion indicating that 32.0 hours of educational activity have been completed. The workshop has been credited in the past for 32.0 Category I CME by the Duke University School of Medicine, and workshop participants may be able to get their home institutions or CE organizations to approve the workshop for such credit based on their certificate of completion and the course syllabus.

Scholarships: For graduate students or faculty members with significant financial need and academic promise, partial tuition scholarships are available on a competitive basis.
