The Need: 82% of Americans report an affiliation with the Christian faith (Baylor University, 2006) yet few researchers, medical professionals, health educators or individuals have explored the spirituality and health connection, in depth, from a Christian perspective. The research community also recognizes a need to better understand the effects of traditional religious beliefs and practices on mental, physical, and social health.

Rationale: Those who live by principles provided by their Creator are better equipped to manage life stressors and more likely to enjoy good health. The Bible contains such guidelines that anyone can apply to their life.

Methods: The Bible was studied to understand which principles might be most relevant and conducive to a person’s health and well-being. The literature, especially material on wholeness and the Christian faith, was also reviewed to learn what others have documented about this topic.

Facts: Medical Truths Relevant to Health & Well-Being

- Man’s spirit, soul, mind and body are inextricably interwoven.

- Chronic stress and unhealthy reactions and coping mechanisms contribute to poor health.
- Lifestyle has significant impact on one’s health.

Beliefs, attitudes and thinking patterns largely determine one’s lifestyle choices/behaviors.
- Spiritual beliefs, choices and practices impact on one’s health and quality of life.
- Peace, joy, love, kindness, thankfulness, gratitude, hope and optimism are health-promoting.

Facts: Spiritual Truths Relevant to Health and Well-Being

God is love. He created us to be in a loving relationship with himself and to glorify him with our lives. 1 John 4:7-10, Gen 1:27, Eph 2:10, Col 1:16, Mk 12:30

God inspired writers of the Bible to give us his perfect principles for living a life of well-being. 2 Tim 3:16-17, Jn 20:31, Ps 119:138

God’s will is that we enjoy good health so we can best use the gifts he has given us and that we live eternally in heaven. 1 Jn 2:17, 3 Jn 1:2

We inherit spiritual death and a sinful nature because of the original sins of Adam and Eve. This separates us from God. Gen 3, Eph 2:1-3, Rom 5:12-19

We try to cope with life stressors and meet our deepest needs of love, acceptance, worth and security apart from God - very often in unhealthy ways. Gal 5:19-21, Rom 3:23; 8:7-8, Jer 2:13

Because God loves us, Jesus lived, died and was resurrected for our sins. If we believe in him we are saved*, reunited with God, and can live a full, eternal life. Jn 3:16; 10:10, Rom 10:9-10

As we live in relationship with Jesus, we are submitted to God’s Holy Spirit, and believe the truths of the Bible, we will experience love, joy, peace, kindness, hope and optimism. John 15:1-5, Gal 5:22-23, Rom 8:28; 15:4, Heb 10:23

The Spirituality - Health Connection
Why It Exists

Dale Fletcher, M.S. - Founder, Faith and Health Connection

“There is a God-shaped vacuum in the heart of every man which cannot be filled by any created thing, but only by God the Creator.”

-Evan Pearsall, French Physicist and Philosopher

“Come to me, all you who are weary and carry heavy burdens, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, let me teach you, because I am humble and gentle at heart, and you will find rest for your souls.”

-Jesus in Matthew 11:28-29

Conclusion: When individuals, regardless of their faith, incorporate these powerful biblical principles of the Christian faith into their lives, the spirituality and health connection occurs and they will tend to enjoy better health and well-being.

Application: This deeper understanding of biblical truths related to well-being creates fresh opportunities for researchers to improve study designs and thus improve documentation of the spirituality and health connection. Physicians and clinicians can better appreciate patients’ spiritual status and thus better care for the whole person. Health educators and parish nurses can weave these biblical truths about the spirituality and health connection into their instruction, thereby increasing learner/patient awareness to improve well being. Individuals can benefit from knowing how to better care for themselves according to God’s design for them.
